A – Adults

The secret to getting along with adults is understanding adult speak. Most adults don't even listen to themselves. When an adult says ; “why is your room such a mess?; they are really saying – CLEAN UP YOUR ROOM! Get it? Code. So, what does an adult mean when he or she says; How many time do I have to tell you to pick up after yourself” Do they really want a number or are they speaking in adult code?

B – Bedrooms

The secret to keeping an adult happy is a tidy bedroom. Adults love tidy bedrooms. Don't ask why; just accept that fact. If you have a tidy bedroom, you can ask all sorts of favors. You know how it goes! “Mom, can I go to Caitlyns's house?” Mom: Is your bedroom tidy? See, that's all an adult cares about. Question: Mom, can I have a cookie? Mom: Is your bedroom tidy? See how simple this is? Keep a tidy bedroom and you get stuff.

C – Clothes. Compromise.

When you get to a certain age, you develop an interest in clothes and want to be able to select your own clothes. Adults have different ideas. Generally speaking adults don't like their kids wearing clothes with bad sayings or bad pictures on them. So, what to do? The secret here is to compromise. Adults, for the most part, will compromise. What does that mean? To compromise means; a settlement of differences in which each side gives up a little to make a deal work. How's that?

D – Duties

When you get old enough, your parents give you chores. Or duties. Most kids hate duties and do anything to get out of doing them. You know what that does? That makes your mom or dad mad! Some kids have it worked out. They want stuff from their mom and dad so they get their chores done – AND – they do a good job, well guess what? Mom and dad are all smiles and they are much more happy to give in to requests.

E – Envy, Exaggeration

Kids are always envious of other kids. Every other kid is allowed to stay up late, watch any TV program they want and have a bedroom computer hooked up to broadband but you. Well, most kids exaggerate and most parents know kids exaggerate as most parents talk to each other. Parents really don't want to hear about what other kids have. Parents don't make rules based on what you see other kids having. The secret? Be happy with what you have.

F – Fun

Life is fun – most of the time. The secret to getting the most fun out of life is be true to yourself, stay away from troublemakers, report bullies, help other people, respect adults who respect you, learn as much as you can, read books, love your mom and dad, brothers and sisters, be fun to be around, play sports, learn music, hang out with kids who you like and who like you, tidy your room and above all, don't be a complainer or a whiner.
